Seventh precinct Sixth precinet. Third precinct ... Ninth precinct Fourth precinct

Police of the seventh precinct, comnanded by Capt. Falvey, won the annual partment at American League Base Ball Park yesterday afternoon, by scoring a Crowd Cheers Competitors. The police games, the first undertaken on a large scale in this city, proved a decided success. There was something going on all the time. The many spectators, the majority of whom had gathered at the base ball park some time before the opening event, which was run off shortly after 2 o'clock, cheered every individual policemen's effort.

Many races were close. In fact, the competition was so keen that many policemen, and, in fact, the commanders of the police precincts forgot their dignity and hurled their hats in the air when some individual of their precinct captured an event.

Parade of Contestants. The games were opened with a parade of the contestants, led by a band, which marched around the field. Then all had their pictures taken by the "movie" men and snapshots. An added attraction to the parade was Policeman J. R. Jenkins of the eighth precinct, attired as a country common and the rear of the parade for a time and later took up the leadership.

Of all events the tug of war undoubtedly proved the most exciting. In this strength-testing event it did not turn out as many of the spectators had supposed. Several teams were composed of the biggest men that could be produced, but it fell to the tenth precinct men, who, although not overlarge, showed they knew something about pulling on a rope and took the final match from the first precinct team, and thus got the championship.

A. E. Ogle, better known as "Babe" parade was Policeman J. R. Jenkins of

A. E. Ogle, better known as "Babe" Okle, of the eleventh precinct, who weighs close to 300 pounds, was entered in the 75-yard dash for policemen weighing more than 240 pounds. Many had picked him as a sure winner. He was all in by the time he reached the tape, with several policemen weighing less in front of him. This event was captured by William T. Gaffany of the third precinct.

There were many entries in the 100-yard dash. As a result it took ten heats to get down to the final event. In fact, all of the events had many entrants, which prolonged the meet considerably.

An exhibition high jump was given by Egon Erickson of the New York police department, a member of the Olymjic team. He was former high jump champion of the National American Amateur Union.

world's champion middleweight wrest ler, had a fifteen minute wrestling bout, which proved interesting. It wa Judge, got second honors, with a total of twenty-three points.

To B. C. Kuehling of the seventh precinct went the individual honors. He scored twelve points for his team.

Two World Becords.

In connection with the meet two world's championships were broken. The records, however, will not be credited as official, as they were made in an exhibition and not in competition.

The first record broken was by Patrick McDonaid of the New York police department, an Olympic champion, when he hurled the 56-pound weight a distance of 45 feet 5 inches.

John J. Eller, also of the Olympic team, a record holder from New York, broke the 120-yard hurdle record when he covered the distance in 14 seconds.

Announcement of the breaking of these two records brought forth a rousing cheer from the large audience. The two athletes were heartily congratulated.

Dout, which proved interesting. It was nip and tuck all the way and ended in a draw. Both men were fit. First one and then the other appeared to have and vantage. When the opponent would wiggle and twist from the hold, to the appreciation of the audience.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were given for the first three places in the running, jumping and shot-put events. The "Board of Trade trophy" was given to the championship tug-of-war team. The "B. F. Keith trophy" was given to the championship relay team. This is to be held by the winning team for one year, and to become the permanent property of the precinct winning it three times.

Gold metals were given to members of the relay championship team. A point trophy was given to the police-man scoring the highest individual points. This is to be held for one year and to become the permanent property of the precinct winning it three times.
